LLOYD GEORGE ILL FROM EFFECTS OF AMERICAN TREATMENT

The announcement of the illness of Lloyd George, following a few days of entertainment "American style" calls attention to the deadly effect of American enthusiasm. Mr. George doubtless has no idea what a strenuous time awaited him in America, or else he would never have undertaken to make speeches at any of the railroad stations along his route of travel.
Another thing the little Welshman perhaps had not considered was the long distances he would have to travel in connecting up with such cities as Montreal, Chicago and Richmond, Va. A trip that would take him to these cities would be as long as one from London to Spain, to Turkey and to Russia. Two things Mr. Lloyd George evidently did not realize the long distances he would have to travel in America, and the great exertion he would have to make to keep up with the easily welcome the American people extend to distinguished foreigners.

GENERAL PRESS COMMENT ON FORD'S SHOALS STAND

Wide spread comment on the action of Henry Ford in refusing to withdraw or amend his original bid for Muscle Shoals indicates that it is generally believed the farm organizations are backing Ford in his present course. Writers and editors, not only of the South, but of the entire country, point to the action of Ford as "a political event of the first magnitude."

"With the farmers in their present state of minds," says one Washington correspondent, "the issue which Mr. Ford has raised will not be easily set at rest. It will add to the political troubles of the republican administration in the West and taken along with the low price of wheat may result in an agrarian party being formed in the next election. It will increase the necessity of the administration doing something for the relief of the wheat farmers and so will strengthen the hands of Secretary Wallace, who wants the government to go into the wheat marketing business and who has the only practical plan for putting up the price of wheat. So the Ford attack on Weeks is a political event of first importance."

It is pointed out that an expression in Ford's former statement of a few days ago, in which he blames the republicans for delay and failure to award the Shoals to him, namely, that they have permitted the injury to shoot "past Henry Ford and land on the farmers," is calculated to arouse the farmers all over the country. More than one claims that Ford's action will strengthen the hands of Secretary Wallace in his effort to get the government to control the wheat market in order to relieve the wheat farmers. It is also claimed that the logical conclusion of the Ford stand will be the putting of the Detroit man in the race for President in 1924, either as a democrat or as an independent candidate.

It is recalled that according to Mr. Ford's own statements of late he does not desire to enter politics.
It is also pointed out that some years ago he was in politics, and that he is liable to repeat.

BOLL WEEVIL CONTROL TO BE BOUGHT IN FIVE-YEAR EFFORT

In the 1924 war against the boll weevil, the greatest menace to the South's great staple crop has ever had, five thousand demonstration farms will be used for experiments in weevil control.
This has been made known by J. S. Wamamaker, president of the American Cotton Association, and it will be the most thorough and most comprehensive effort yet made to control the pest.

Four thousand of the experimental farms, it was stated by President Wannamaker in his annual address at the Columbia, S. C., convention of the Association, will be operated by white farmers and 1,000 by negroes, and the experiment will be carried on for five years.

President Wannamaker is convinced that the ability of negro farmers, because of such destruction, to make a living, has had much to do with the migration of negroes to the North from southern rural sections. Stop the boll weevil, he thinks, and we will stop the negro migrations.

One thing that will help materially in the fight against the weevil will be the co-operation of all farmers of the South, white and colored, in the campaign. The fight on the weevil finally resolves itself into a community matter, and it is even more centralized than that, for it rests with the individual farmer whether or not he shall make his own farm free of weevils, and safeguard his neighbor's farm by doing so.

Out of the experiments to be made by the American Cotton Association doubtless will come an effective remedy for weevil infestation and a means for checking the damage the weevil does.
It will be of value to every southern cotton grower to watch carefully the reports of the experiments and to take such steps as the Association prompts to carry on the fight.

The boll weevil must be driven from the southern fields. There is a way to do this and the way will be made clear through the earnest efforts being directed to it. The five thousand experiments to be made on as many farms in all parts of the South will bring a remedy and the plan appears to be the best that could have been devised.—Anniston

A Train Of Thoughts
For the Sabbath and Other Days
(By J. E. Blair.)

A successful life is one lived in right relationships. And the most successful "livers" are those who know the most—and practice what they know—about the law of putting "first things first." For instance, he who obeys the first of the ten commandments, which says in effect, —but God first—has already won the race. But, owing to the fact that this same God who must be put first, made man a very ignorant being to start with—a mere determination to put God first must be supplemented with knowledge—and a whole lot of it. So important is knowledge and a right use of it that today it is a common belief that the most godly people are valueless unless practical.

Just being loyal and true to a Supreme Being is not enough—we must know His laws. Misin-formation about what we call divine life, or of the laws of the spiritual life as appalling.

For instance, first, we speak of "the truth," being revealed unto us now, and of life eternal being given to us when our bodies die. Putting "first things first" we should say we get eternal life the moment we believe in Christ. There are scripture quotations in large numbers that uphold this view, and none that contradict it. But although even creeds speak of our receiving "the truth" in this life, everybody knows who is intellectually honest, we receive only a very small part of "the truth" in this life. Christ said once there were many things He had to say, but that His hearers could not hear them.

Second, we are inclined to put environment as first, in character building, heredity second, and what is in the human being or his will and intellect as last.

Now, if God is just the determining power in a life for success or failure is the will power in that life. The parents of persons are of secondary importance in determining character. Those who make a great hue and cry about what race such and such persons belong to, as touching their success or failure religiously, are just plain ignorant; or worse still, they are led captive by what somebody told them the Bible said about such and such a race of people. Besides, is it not indelicate and impolite to single out people and count them in droves and belonging to certain races instead of as divinely made individuals, all with the same Father?

And referring to churches a moment—who wants to be referred to as just a members of such and such a sect? People who are any size at all are bigger than any organization or any race—they are heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ. And all have the power to become the sons of God! Put God first, put yourself right next to Him, and don't let anything intervene, then you have put "first things first," and are ready to enjoy eternal life now, and to learn a little along the way of life.

IN THE AIR

Paris regulates the landing and flying of airplanes in and over the city.

The "flying pay" of an aviator in the United States navy is $300 a month.

Last year 10,781 passengers were carried to and from England by flying machines.

The hunting of whales with machine guns by airplane has been reported from the Philippines.

Aviation insurance covering all classes of travelers in airplanes is procurable in Germany.

Aerial time-tables giving prices and time of all European air lines have been published in Germany.

The Santa Maria, a commercial flying boat of the Aeromarine company of New York has flown 45,000 miles.

English inventors have developed a self-starter for airplanes that is operated by an aviator pulling a lever from his seat.

Danish aviation interests are planning a mail and freight service from Copenhagen to several cities in central Europe.

The New York inventor of a crude oil engine for automobiles, airplanes and lighting plants claims that it will drive a car 300 miles with a gallon of oil.

With his engine shut off completely, the French aviator, Lieutenant Thoret, recently stayed in the air for more than seven hours in an ordinary airplane.

The United States may now have a motor which will nearly eliminate the noise in aircraft and automobile engines with no resultant loss of power.

The first German airplane piloted by a German aviator to land voluntarily in England since the World war recently arrived at Croydon. It was the first all-metal plane to cross the channel.

"WORSE THAN PAIN"

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Nerver Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. I. G. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go. I was thin. I had no appetite. Could not rest or sleep well.
I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself.

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart.

"This nervous condition was worse than pain.

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it.

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and happier.

"I have never found anything better

If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, you, too, should find Cardui helpful for your troubles.

RUTH, CRUSHED TO SAVE A STATE

Ruth's Third Home

In the 1922 world series between the Yankees and the Giants Babe Ruth was everything a ball player shouldn't be. He hit like a blind man and fielded like a cripple. In the 1923 series the Babe, who had just completed his greatest year in baseball, hit like a batin' fool and fielded like the marvel he is. He hit two home runs in one game and a third—a new record—in the first inning of the last game of the series, which gave the Yanks their first world championship. Ruth is shown as he crossed the home plate in the last game.

DELEGATES RETURN FROM CONVENTION

Local delegates to the Alabama state convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which closed in Attalla, Friday have returned home and report that in all probability the state convention next year will be held in Birmingham. But delegates explain that as next year, beginning this December, will be the 50th year since the founding of the W. C. T. U. that more than one state gathering will be held of the union and that the conventions will be held in two or three cities for the purpose of holding on a "Jubilee Program" in memory of the founding of the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. C. W. Black stated the state officers which have served the union for a number of years, including Mrs.
Mary T. Jeffries of Birmingham as president were reelected.

Mrs. Black stated that the big news feature of the Attalla convention, was th debate on and the final passage by unanimous vote of a resolution presented by Mrs. W. J. Pettus of Huntsville opposing the candidacy of Senator Oscar W. Underwood for President. Mrs. Black stated that the preamble of the anti-Underwood resolution recited that the ground gained for prohibition had been gained and held at too great a cost to admit of the Alabama W. C. T. U. approving of the candidacy of Mr. Underwood, on the ground that the Senator was regarded as "fundamentally" not strong enough for prohibition to secure the support of the state W. C. T. U.

The resolution named Mr. Underwood saying of him that the convention would not "approve his candidacy or that of any other man not fundamentally, a prohibitionist."

INTERNATIONAL MOTOR MEETING FOR DETROIT

National Automobile Chamber of Commerce Sponsors Event to Be Held in May, 1924

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Sponsored by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the first international motor transport congress will be held at Detroit in May, 1924.

It will be a non-partisan effort to put the entire world on wheels, to convert everyone to the belief that the automobile is a utility vehicle that cannot be dispensed with in these modern times, or, as the N. A. C. C. expresses it in the announcement just made, "to provide a better understanding of the economic factors underlying motor transportation in every part of the world."

While the definite date has not been settled, it is planned to make at a four-day convention, for which invitations will be extended to foreign government officials, automotive associations, dealers representing automotive manufacturers abroad, and editors of business papers devoted to motor transport in each of 114 countries where motor vehicles are used.

Personnel of Committee
Initial preparations for the congress are being made by the Foreign Trade Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, of which J. Walter Drake, now assistant secretary of the Department of Commerce of the United States, was chairman. As yet no successor to him has been named, the committee's personnel at the present time consisting of H. M. Robins, Dodge Brothers; Jay P. Rathbun, White; H. B. Phipps, Hudson; J. D. Mooney, General Motors; Howard S. Welch, Studebaker, and G. F. Bauer, secretary.

This committee is engaged in preparation of the program for the congress, planning to card subjects of direct bearing on the economic development of international motor transport. The subjects will be handled by prominent executives in automobile companies, who also are active on N. A. C. C. committees that study automotive problems pertaining to taxation, highways, insurance, distribution, servicing, operations and financing.

To Hear of Foreign Conditions Actual automotive conditions in specific countries also will receive attention. Speakers to be chosen from among the delegates will be asked to review the automotive situation in their respective continents and to touch on problems with which they are confronted and in the solution of which the manufacturers and delegates from other countries also are interested.

"The industry believes that this practical exchange of experiences by official and automotive representatives from all countries will tend to create a better understanding of the part contributed by the motor vehicle to the economic development of nations and to help solve urgent transportation problems which are pressing in many countries of the world," Bauer says.

It is expected that the congress will attract approximately 1,000 delegates. General Motors has 500 in its export service, most of whom are eligible as delegates.—Motor World.

THE SALES MANAGER'S JOB

Directing a selling force is a man's size job. The sales manager, and by that is meant the man who directs the salesmen whether he carries the title or is the dealer himself, occupies a position in the organization that is virtually "loaded" with potential power to make or break the organization of which he is a part. No concern, however large or small, can afford to give anything less than its best thought to the selling department and the man at the head of it.

The sales manager in an automotive establishment, no matter what his other qualifications may be, must have had actual selling experience to effectively direct his subordinates. He must, himself, have trudged along the selling road to success. Lacking experience, he will be unable to inspire his men and win their confidence and co-operation while guiding them through the difficulties they will meet. He should be able to encourage them with recitals of his own experiences when apparently unsurmountable difficulties arise in their paths.

The sales manager should have a warm, sympathetic appreciation of the problems of his salesmen and the experience and ability to point a way out of them. He will make them his associates, and be their guiding spirit in personal matters as well as business matters, if they desire his help, and display real interest in their personal successes. He must be helpful to them if they are to be helpful to him.

The good sales manager studies his salesmen and strives to bring out of them their individualities and get out of each the best that is in him. He can't afford to be aloof, or "put on airs."

And all of this he must accomplish without placing about his men unnecessary restrictions. Good salesmen do not need many orders and they should be thrown on their own resources to the greatest extent possible—but held strictly responsible for results. Given independence of action within the bounds of house policy, the good salesman rises to his highest point of personal efficiency. It encourages self-reliance, develops initiative and individuality, and makes strong men. And it also weeds out the weak ones.

The sales manager is the keystone in the merchandising arch in dealer organizations. His selection is an important step in maintaining a smoothly running, efficient and effective sales department. Under his personal guidance rests the big profit-earning department. Subject to his whims and prejudices, as well as his inspiration and guidance, are the men who turn the products of the company into dollars and cents, pay the overhead, and provide the income from which all other departments strive to extract a net profit.

Sales managers are the top sergeants of business and fill the same important niche in business they did in the army. And how we all appreciated officers and privates alike—a good top sergeant!—Motor World.

FARMERS ABLE TO BUY TRACTORS, SAYS MOUNT

They are Enjoying Reasonable Degree of Prosperity, He Says in Letter CHICAGO—Farmers are much better able to buy tractors and other needed commodities than they were in 1921 or 1922, according to Finley P. Mount, president of the Advance-Rumely Co., who characterizes as "loose talk, bunk and political propaganda" much of what has been said and printed about the poverty of the farmer. In a letter to the selling agents of his company, he discusses the situation as follows:

"Of course, some farmers are losing money. So are some people in every other business. Some farmers will always lose money, because they either do not know how or will not learn how to manage their business properly, and this is true of every other business. But good farmers are now enjoying a reasonable degree of prosperity."

More Money Than In 1921.

Continuing he says:
In 1921 the farmer was pretty hard hit. In 1922 by reason of better prices for some commodities and better yields of others, his crop brought him $2,000,000,000 more than in 1921. Now in 1923 measured by present prices and estimate of yields he will have $1,000,000,000 more money for his crop than he had in 1922, or $3,000,000,000 more than he had in 1921.

True, wheat recently dropped below a dollar in Chicago, but did it ever occur to you that wheat constitutes only 7 per cent of the total value of farm products in the United States? The loss in the price of wheat is greatly outweighed by the increase in the price of corn.

The low price of wheat may reduce the acreage put to wheat, but be assured that acreage must be farmed, it will go into something else. The point I want to stress is that the farmer today is better able to buy our machinery than he was last year, and we know from actual experience and results he was much better able to buy in 1922 than in 1921.

We must not therefore allow this talk about agricultural depression, much of which is political bunk and propaganda to slow us up in our sales effort for 1923.

I want to tell you that in my judgment our business has suffered more this year from the loose talk than from the farmer's actual condition. There are farmers aplenty who are able to buy and it is up to us to find these farmers and sell our goods.—Motor World.

New Idea in Electric Sifter.
A manufacturer of a successful electric sifter, which has been used as a sand sifter on the building floor of foundries and for sifting purposes, has developed this idea in making a device that sifts out material suspended in liquids. The machine is wholly inclosed except for the halfcylindrical top which prevents the liquor from splashing over.

WELCOME RAIN VISITS

HARTSELLE TUESDAY

The first rain of any consequence for over forty days visited this section Tuesday morning, greatly reviving everything, and abating the dust which has been the delight of every one. Numerous colds and some more serious cases of sickness have been attributed to the dust clouds which constantly menaced and everyone is glad that the dust is now mud.

SOME CASES OF DIPHTHERIA HAVE DEVELOPED HERE

Some cases of diphtheria continue to develop in widely separated sections of this country, and one is known to exist here at this time. None of the cases reported appear to be of a malignant type. Many inoculations as a preventative means have been employed. With the coming of rain, it is hoped all cases may disappear in a short time.

It is reported here today that a school in the Danville community was disbanded, pending improvement of sick children of the school.

THE LINE HIGHWAY THROUGH TOWN TO BE STRAIGHTENED

A large force of men and teams were put to work Tuesday morning working on the new street which will straighten out that portion of the Bee Line Highway passing through the town. The work began at the corner of Puryear and Thompson's shop, and will proceed southward to a point at the intersection of College street. A large fill is to be made and a large cement culvert will be constructed over the branch which passes through the ravine in the proposed route.

This improvement will give the town a new street, and will be a great improvement over the present winding way of the highway south through the town.

BANKRUPT CHATAUQUA

HARTSELLE PEOPLE

The Bankrupt Chatauqua people who are presenting a program for three days and afterwards here this week have fulfilled all expectations and the tent on Main street is the scene for large numbers of people who attend the two performances each day and night. The funds derived over and above the expenses of the entertainment will go into the fund of the local Baptist-Teachers' association, to be used by them in furthering their work for the winter months.

FUTING FOOTBALL GAME

SATURDAY THE SENSATION

OF THE HOUR

The coming football game to be played at Decatur Saturday when M. C. H. meets Central H. will be the game of the season so far as interest is concerned, and it is safe to say that with weather conditions clear, there will be one of the largest crowds follow the team to the play ground from this point in the history of football here.

The fact that M. C. H. S. has never met defeat at the hands of Central H. is spurring the local boys to put over the very best that is in them, and keep the record where it is. If good will and generous rooting, and as game a squad of football players who ever donned a uniform will avail, the game will result in a victory for the boys of the M. C. H. S.

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION TO MEET AT DECATUR, FRIDAY

THE PRICE OF COTTON WAS SATISFACTORY LAST WEEK

With the price of cotton continually mounting the ladder of better prices a large number of planters who were here with the product were disposed to sell at the prevailing prices, 29.80 was the highest recorded here this season, and numerous sales were made at these figures.

MEETING AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH COMES TO END ON SUNDAY NIGHT

The meeting at the First Baptist church which was in progress one week came to an end with the service Sunday night, and several additions to the church were the result. Owing to conflicting dates, over which none had any previous knowledge, it was deemed best to close the services for this time. The visiting minister, Rev. J. M. Walker, of Aberdeen, Miss., did the preaching throughout and impressed everyone who heard him as a deeply consecrated Christian minister. He will return here again in the early spring and conduct another revival service.

Odd Kind of Fish.

No fish is stranger than the little sea-horse. It has a body encased in rings of bony mail, a horse-shaped head set at right angles and a prehensile tail to grasp seaweed in which it hides. It always floats with its snout head up and erect. Another peculiar thing about the sea-horse is that the male fish carries the eggs in a pouch situated under his tail until the young are hatched and large enough to look out for themselves.

WINS THE RIGHT TO KEEP HIS DOG

Vernon Rolske

When Vernon Rolske, of Chicago, started to get low marks in school his father thought it was due to giving too much time to his pet dog, "Tootsie." So Vernon was ordered to take "Tootsie" away and lose her. A policeman found Vernon and his dog in Lincoln Park late at night, and Vernon explained he had tried to lose "Tootsie," but that she looked so unhappy he couldn't, so he stayed away from home to be with his dog. The kindly cop offered to square it at home if Vernon would make better marks in his classes. Vernon's father agreed, and Vernon is improving rapidly as a scholar.
